Inside the black are . . . REFLECTIONS OF GOLD

Poor economy, high interest rates, and mass unemployment all help to back up the fact that the world is in the red.

But at M-G, the dedicated faculty and student body work together to show that Madison-Grant's world is in the black.

Camaraderie, unity, and an optimistic outlook for the future glows in our world with the brilliance and value of gold. This inner glow shines through the blackness to brighten our lives with reflections of gold. Our hopes and goals in life will be easier to attain with the golden opportunities we've received in our educational and personal experiences at M-G.

Sam Bright, senior, enters a deserted hallway to get his books for the evening's study.

Vince Engle, senior, spends some of his free time enjoying his favorite music.

Still able to smile after being removed from the game due to an injured foot is Senior quarterback, Curt Stitt.

As the final announcements were given, and the dismissal was heard, seven hundred and sixty eight students rushed out of the gymnasium. Some of them got on buses, but most of them jumped into their cars and burned rubber on the school parking lot one last time, before facing three short months of enjoying that

GOLDEN SUMMER SUN!

During a long day of riding roller coasters and taking in sights at King's Island, Jack Titus and Barbara Holtsclaw take a few minutes to rest.

While vacationing in Tennessee, Michelle Cline and Shari Beckley cool off in a refreshing stream.

Going out on a limb for each other, Dave Spencer and Stephanie Hinds enjoy a fun day at Turkey Run State Park.

What's the catch Sherrie? During her vacation in Minnesota, Sherrie McNeely caught her biggest fish yet.

Although he broke his arm early in the summer, Mark Deisler is still able to enjoy bicycle riding.

Another
Summer

Another Sunrise

Your hand fumbles for the button on your alarm clock, knocks the clock off the desk, and as you try to catch it before it hits the floor, you fall out of bed with a thump! Another day of camp has begun.

After a quick shower, you and your roommate make a dash to breakfast. Amazed, you look at your plate saying, "I paid $93.50 for sleepless nights and this?"

Later, after what seems like endless hours of practice and study, you return to the dorm tired, sweaty, and ready for a nap, to hear the camp instructors say, "FREE TIME!!"

Suddenly, your tired eyes, sore legs, and aching back come alive with energy. You race to the pool, run to the soda shop, or lay out in what's left of the sunshine.

Five minutes before lights out, you remember an assignment that is due first thing in the morning. You sneak to the bathroom, pen, pencil and paper in hand, to work under the lights, discovering ten other people had the same idea.

Finally, two hours later, you stumble to your room, and fall into an exhausted sleep. Only five more days to go . . .

While attending Journalism Workshop at Ball State, Annie Roy of Heritage High School, and Seniors Kim Johnson and Stephanie Hinds prepare to go to the "Toga Bash."

Togas came to be the fashion at the Epworth Forrest church camp, which was attended by many M-G students.

Members of the pom line take a few minutes to rest during the summer workshop for the Drill Team.

Meeting an indian chief was just one of the exciting experiences juniors Shari Beckly and Michelle Cline had at Camp Wawasee.

Listening to the instructions of Mr. Lamb, these flag corp members learned new techniques at the Drill Team Workshop.

Making new friends was just one of the highlights of Hoosier Girls State.

When the weather permits, Lisa Reno, senior enjoys riding her bike around town.

Trying to earn some extra money, Kenny Knigga, junior, takes time to wash a friends car.

During Fairmount Museum Days, junior, John Allen does his best to win the lasso contest.

Sponsor of the junior class, Mrs. Herring, and junior Karen Leitch, work at a bake sale trying to make money for the Prom.

Weekends: made for having fun.

Thank God it's Friday!! As the last bell rings, many students race to their lockers, grab their keys, and run to their cars. The weekend is finally here.

For some students, the weekend means a time to catch up on their sleep. For others, it is a time to do homework. But for most, it is a time to spend with their friends.

Now that the weekend is here, they ask themselves, "What should I do?"

"Should I go to the movie with Susie, or should I go out with the guys?"

"Should I go to the party, or should I get my college prep assignment done?"

When Saturday night rolls around, not many students can be found at home.

For a few, this meant spending the entire day getting ready for their date with that special person.

For others, it meant washing their car so they could go cruising that night.

Yet, for others it meant brushing their teeth and putting on their uniform to head for their part-time job.

Once they have lived through Saturday night, Sunday is filled with recuperation. Many students sleep until noon, while others get up early to go to church.

Of course their homework is put off until the very last moment. Around 9:00 Sunday night, students dejectedly drag out their books and try to do their homework.

After a couple of hours spent on a chemistry assignment that they never finish, students head for bed, a sad thought in mind.

"Five more days until the next fun-filled weekend."

HOMECOMING: spirit at a fever pitch.

When else could someone come to school dressed like Frankie Avalon or Annette Funicello? Or when else would students spend countless hours making signs and posters and hanging endless rows of crepe paper in the halls? And when else could members of the student body make fools out of themselves by having their faces smeared in Jello, or by riding a trike along the football field? When else but Homecoming week, 1981.

Even though Thursday night was cold and wet, a very big crowd showed up for the annual bonfire to help boost the spirit of the team and to add some extra fun to homecoming week.

By the time Friday arrived, the spirit was higher than ever. Black and gold was seen everywhere as the entire student body and faculty assembled at the football field for a pep session. Members of the football team as well as other students participated in races and contests in between cheers and yells done by everyone.

Before the end of the pep session, elated shouts and cheers were heard as Mr. Martin, principal and emcee of the pep session, announced that the winners of the hallway contest were the juniors, and that the seniors had won the banner contest. All that work had paid off for these two classes.

Senior cords, letter sweaters and saddle oxfords were seen everywhere on 50's day. Seniors Lisa Massie, Joanie Butcher, and Karen Chastain exhibit school spirit by wearing their renditions.

When Friday night came, and the Peru Tigers walked onto the field, they were met by our Argyls. At halftime, the players left the field which was then taken over by the queen candidates and their escorts. The queen candidates were Barbara Holtsclaw, Lisa Shull, and Tonya Stroup. King candidates were Steve King, Curt Stitt, and Mitch Warren.

Before a numerous crowd, Barbara Holtsclaw, escorted by Jim Terhune, was crowned as queen for the 81-82 season. Mitch Warren was named king.

The second half of the game proved to be somewhat disappointing as the final score on the scoreboard told the upsetting outcome of the game, M-G 6, Peru 7.

After the game, many disappointed students crossed the parking lot and went into the school for the homecoming dance. The disc jockey made everyone forget the defeat and helped them to see that thanks to them, homecoming week 1981 was a great success.

Working long hours paid off for the seniors, as they won the banner contest with their surfing smurf.

Trying their hardest to eat faster are Bruce Leachman, Adam Worl, Monty Columbus, and Bill West as they participate in the Jello eating contest, sponsored by the Yearbook Staff.

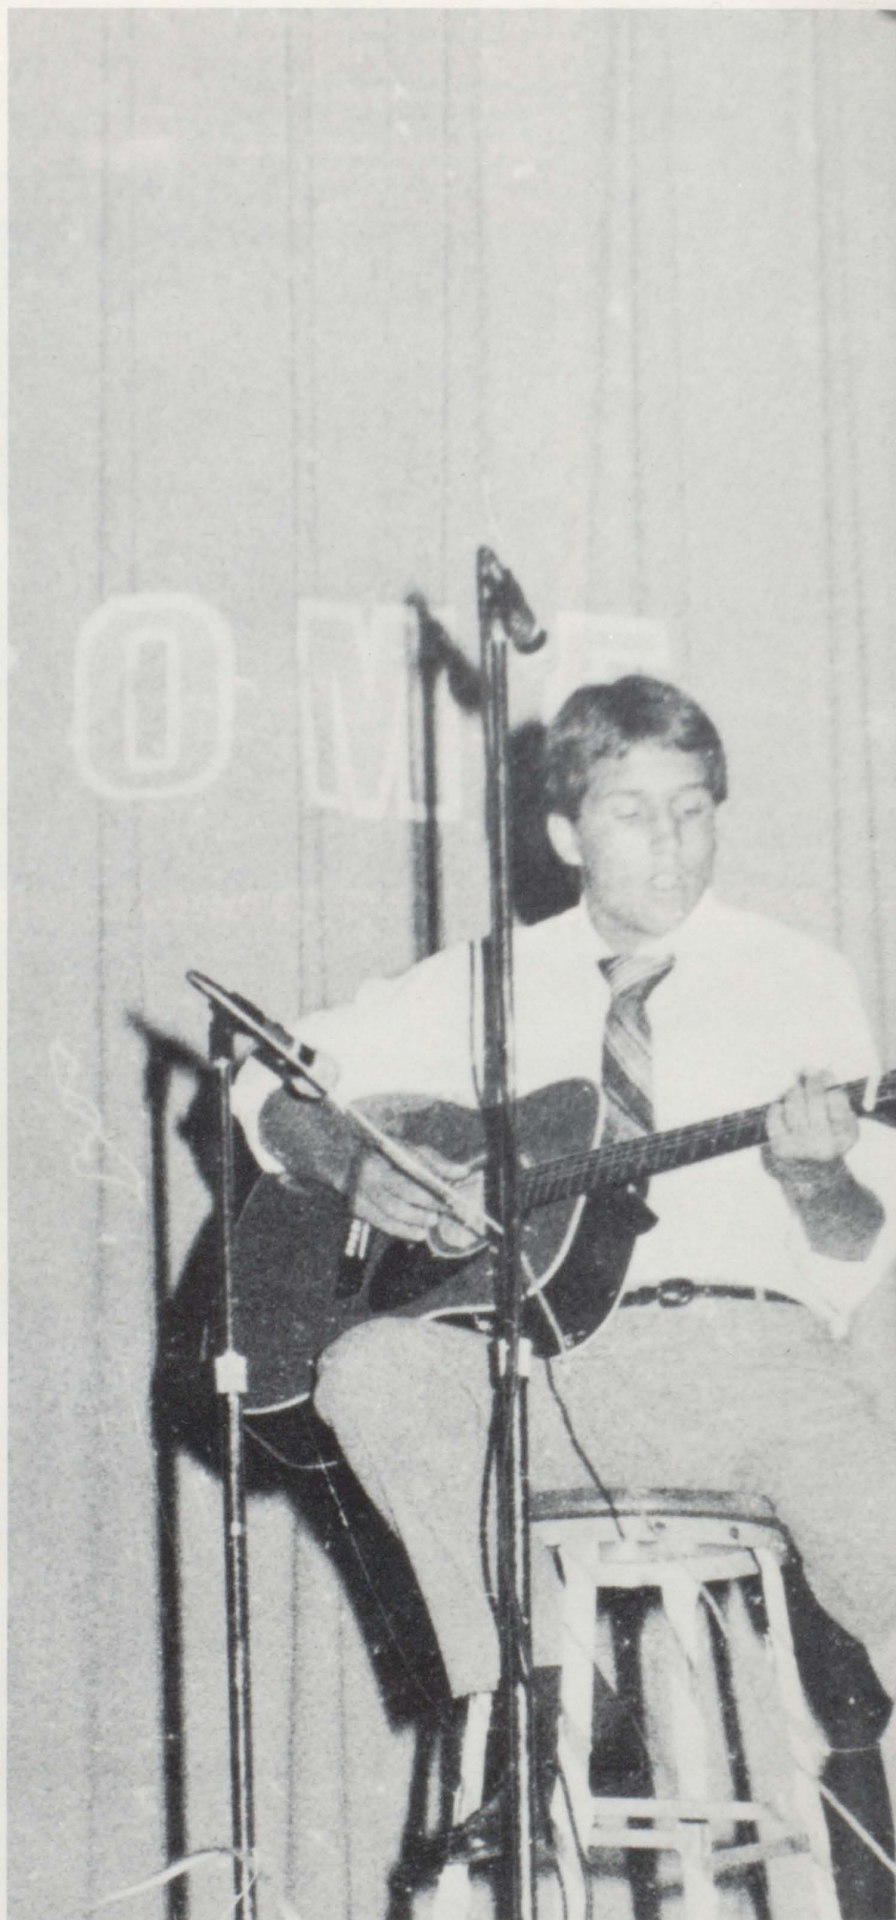

With a look of grim determination on their faces, the Freshmen tug-of-war team tries to pull for a victory.

The enthusiasm rises at M-G during the homecoming pep session.

Trying to dress Dan Rodarte in record time is Tammy Bright at the Pep Club's get acquainted party.

While Brian Fruitt takes a last minute look at his lines for the play "Our Town," Lisia Carl puts some finishing touches on his make-up.

Vince Engle entertains a breathless audience at the Fall Talent Show by singing the song "Chip's Song."

More than just books and grades

Considering the fact most students spend close to 1440 hours at school, it is safe to say that school activities have a big influence on student's lives.

Some students are involved in athletics, musical groups, and other organizations. These organizations take up a lot of the student's time with practices, trips, and performances.

And then there are those students who just like to be with their friends. These students can be found in halls cracking jokes before school, visiting with friends during lunch, and cruising in their cars after school.

1440 hours in a year may seem like a long time, but with everything that school has to offer, it all flies by much too quickly.

The essence of NIGHT MAGIC

Her fairy godmother waved a magic wand and turned her from an everyday girl to someone extra special. The long gown, dainty slippers, and newly-styled hair made the picture complete. Her handsome prince arrived punctually, flowers in hand, and they were off to the ball.

In many ways, the prom was like a fairy tale. Girls changed from everyday clothes into elegant gowns, and guys changed from jeans and t-shirts into ties and tails. While he spent hours cleaning the car, she spent hours perfecting her appearance.

Upon their arrival to the Sheraton Inn, couples enjoyed a royal feast and danced to the music of "Morning Star".

At 10:30 p.m., junior class president Mitch Warren announced the 1981 King and Queen, Todd Stroup and Elizabeth Mack.

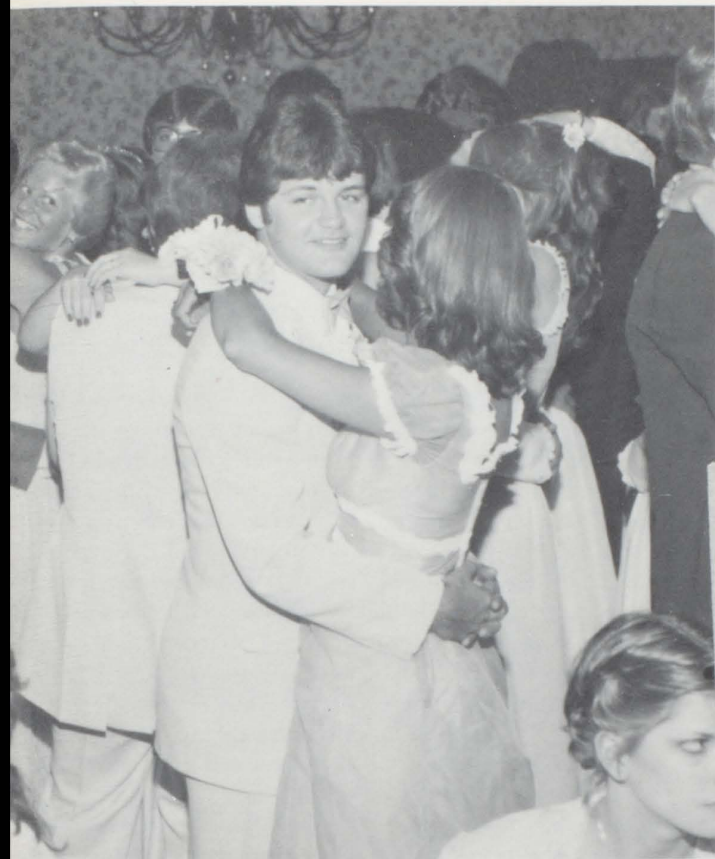

Suddenly the clock strikes midnight. The ball is over for another year. The gowns, slippers, ties and tails turn again into jeans and sneakers.

Todd Stroup and Elizabeth Mack were crowned King and Queen of the '81 prom.

Enjoying a dance together are foreign exchange student Miguel Castillo and his date Karen Chastain.

Many expressions were seen as couples danced to the music of "Morning Star."

The group "Morning Star" performed many favorite tunes at the Sheraton.

Liz Mack's face lights up as she receives her royal bouquet from the 1980 prom queen, Amy Breedlove.

DATING: trials and tribulations.

He walked to her locker and waited for her to appear. This was his big chance. He had talked to her best friend the night before and he was sure she would go out with him. What plans he'd made. First, they would go to the new French restaurant, then on to a show with a couple of friends. Going with friends would make it easier, since he hadn't talked to her that much before. To top it all off, his father had agreed to let him use their new Buick Riviera! It was going to be perfect.

It seemed to him as if he had been waiting for hours at her locker. Just as he was about to give up and go to class, she came down the hall.

"Oh my gosh! It's HIM! What's he doing at my locker?" she thought nervously to herself. She kept a surface calm, however, and casually said hello.

"Hello, Judy," he said. "Say, what are you doing on Saturday night?"

"Oh, I don't know, nothing definite."

"Good! What if I pick you up at 7:30 and we go to that new French restaurant. Later, we can meet Jill and Frank and go to a movie. What do you say?"

"Sounds good to me! I'll see you at 7:30!"

"Mom! Where's my three piece suit? You did pick it up from the cleaners didn't you?"

"Oh Bill I forgot! With your little brother sick and all the planning for the PTA Banquet next week, I completely forgot. I'm sorry!"

"Oh Mom! What's Judy gonna think? Our first date and I take her to a fancy restaurant in jeans."

"Now Bill, if Judy is the nice girl you say she is, she'll understand. Oh! There's the telephone. Will you answer it, Bill?"

"Hello. Oh hi Frank. Oh no! Are you serious? Judy has the mumps! Great. Now what? Huh? Oh nothing Frank. Sure I understand that you can't go. Don't worry. Tell Jill I hope she feels better. Yeah, bye."

"Hey Bill. Where's your mother? I've got to talk to her right away."

"Oh hi, Dad. She's in the kitchen. Can I have the car keys now? I have to pick Judy up in an hour."

"Son, I'd love to give you the car keys, but they wouldn't do you any good. The transmission went out. I'm afraid you'll have to drive the pickup son."

"Oh brother. What next?"

Judy nervously looked at the clock, twisted the ring on her finger, and paced the floor.

"What if he doesn't show up?"

She looked at the clock again. 15 minutes late.

"I'll kill him if he stands me up!"

A car passes by the house. She runs to the window only to see the tail lights. Another car passes, again she goes to the window and again she sees only the tail lights. Deciding to give up and watch "Love Boat," Judy sat down and kicked off her high heeled shoes.

The sound of the doorbell caught her by surprise. She quickly put on her shoes and ran to the door.

Taking three deep, calming, breaths, she opened the door.

"Hi Bill! Gee, I thought you'd never get here. Come on in while I get my coat."

"Uh, Judy — uh, we've got a problem. See, my mom forgot to pick up my suit from the cleaners and the restaurant doesn't allow jeans."

"Oh Bill, that's okay. I'll just change into jeans myself and then we can go meet Jill and Frank and go to a movie."

"Uh, Judy — Jill has the mumps so they can't go."

"Oh well. That doesn't matter. We can still go to a movie. By the way, Jill told me about your new car. I can't wait to ride in it!"

"Uh, Judy — uh, the transmission went out. All I have left to drive is the pick-up. I'm sorry!"

"Don't worry. Tell ya what, I'll go change, then let's just go to McDonald's and to a movie. I don't go for all that fancy stuff anyway."

"Okay. Gosh! I was afraid you wouldn't understand! Go ahead and change and we'll have a lot of fun! What else can go wrong anyway?"

Later, after the movie, Bill was taking Judy home.

"Bill, I really had a lot of fun. We may have had a little trouble with our plans, but like you said, we had all our bad luck before the date!"

"Uh, Judy — uh, don't look now, but there is a police car behind us with it's red light flashing and I'm going 75 mph!"

"Oh Bill! . . . "

Besides going out on the weekends, Bud Shelton and Nancy Matney enjoy spending time together at school.

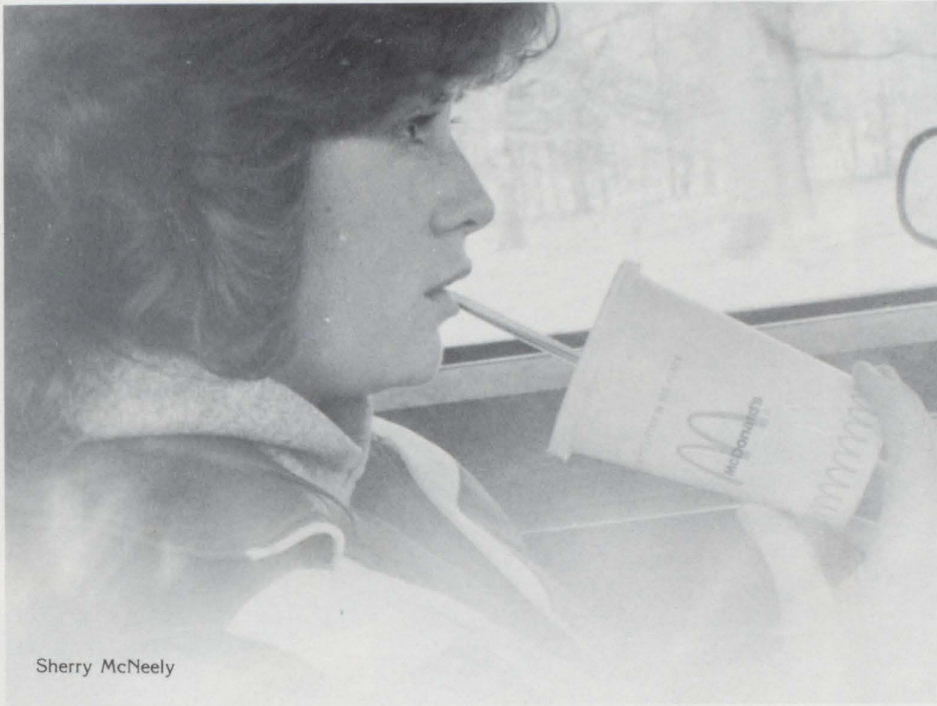

Lunchtime is a time that couples like to be together as shown by Jodi Simpson and Bill Cornelious.

Before the movie "Arthur" starts, Shelly Webb and Mike Ernst spend a few minutes talking.

The Class of 1982

There are so many thoughts and opinions of this class that the sources are continuous. Some of the main sources are the members of the class themselves; the underclassmen with whom they attended their last year of school, their teachers and counselors; and maybe prospective employers.

The seniors have a lot of opinions about themselves. These are the opinions which really count the most. Some look at this year in their lives as being the end of a grueling task they were committed to by the generations before them. Others think of it as a start of a vast new life ahead of them that they can mold and shape into their wildest dreams and uppermost goals. They all have different plans, but they all would like a bright, happy, and prosperous future. Sure, they all look to graduation day with eager eyes, but when they've been out a while they'll look back with eyes just as eager. Eager to relive those wonderful days all over again.

Seniors Go FORD

Barry Pogue, Mike Shelton and Benny Yount belong to the Performance Ford Club of America. The club works out of Ashville, Ohio, and to belong you must own a vehicle powered by a Ford engine.

These seniors belong to a chapter. There are ten people in a chapter. They are presently working on recruiting new club members. When they reach fifty members, the chapter will become a region. If they achieve this goal, they will be able to hold some of the clubs' activities in this area.

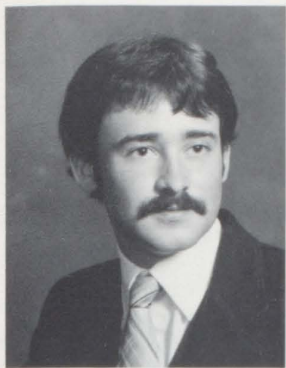

Some of the Ford Club's activities are car shows, swap meets, dances and contests. The Performance Ford Club also publishes a magazine.

The 1981-82 Senior class officers are: Mitch Warren, President; Jim Ratliff, Vice Pres.; Sam Bright, Secretary; Barb Holtsclaw, Treasurer.

The Class of 1983

The juniors were busy this year raising money for the prom. They held a bake sale, skating party, and a dance. They also collected candy bar wrappers to help, but the major fund-raisers were concessions and spring pictures.

The theme of the prom was "The Rose." It was held May 8 at the Marion Sheraton, featuring the band "Reelin' Kyte."

Juniors were one of the largest classes with 184 students, including a large amount of school spirit.

The junior class sponsors were Mrs. Sally Herring, Mrs. Jill Miller and Mr. Jeffrey Summers.

Memories . . .

Four years of high school leave a lot of memories. There is a long list of things which leave us these memories: teachers, locker combinations, lunch, dances, games, dates and many more. Often the only real evidence of a wonderful evening is a ticket stub or a McDonald's sweepstake coupon.

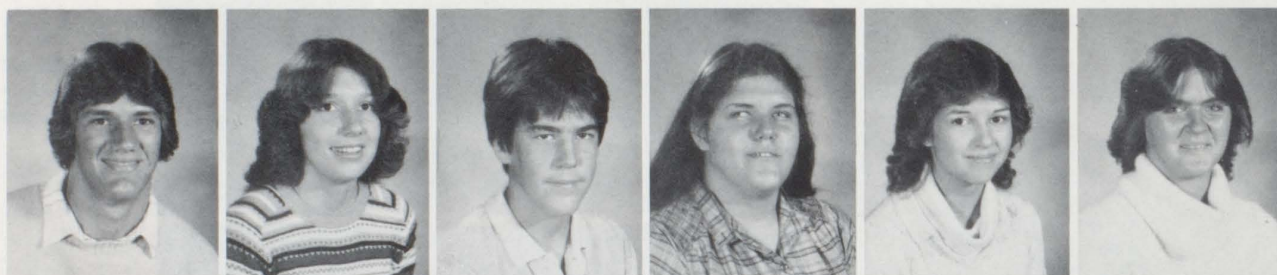

Scrapbooks are overflowing with torn movie tickets, napkins from fancy restaurants, programs from games and plays, pressed flowers, and pictures from the prom. There is not necessarily anything appealing about an old corsage, but the moment he pinned it to your gown is brought back by the once beautiful flower you stumble over in your scrapbook from time to time.

The movie could have been good, bad, or in-between, but just the sharing of the popcorn and laughs made it extra special. The scores of the basketball games are recorded in the record books as well as in your mind. The excitement of the game and the company of friends make up Friday night memories.

Memories. Ordinary objects, but ones that mean a lot. Remnants of the past that enrich the future.

Sophomore? What is a Sophomore? The word is derived from the Greek sophos meaning wise and mos meaning foolish. To the sophomore class it is like being the middle sibling. They are not "little freshmen," yet they are not "upper classmen" either.

It is an annual tradition for the Sophomore class to purchase their class jackets. The 1981-82 sophomore class chose the colors of black and gold and are showing off their choices with pride.

The sponsors for the 1981-82 sophomores are Mr. Howard Badger, Mrs. Linda Bragg, and Mrs. Linda Dunlap.

Fadists Invade

There has been an explosion of two types of faddism at our school. What are they? Well, in this case it is the punker versus the preppy.

Everyone has their favorite of the two, but not everyone falls into just one category. Some people are devout preppies from Monday until Wednesday, but as the weekend draws near they get into the weekend mood and totally "punk-out."

To "punk-out" is the ultimate in casual dress. This means you put on a favorite pair of ripped, torn and holey jeans and an old, wrong-side-out sweatshirt accented with safety pins and buttons. These buttons have various rock groups and sayings on them.

After the weekend fades out, we are back to Monday through Wednesday and, of course, being a preppy. What is a preppy? Buttondown collars and pinch pleated slacks, Izod shirts, boat shoes are their symbols.

The preppies will run around with alligators on their clothes and the punkers will forever have holes. These are today's looks, but that's the nature of faddism things will always change.

The Class of 1985

The Freshmen found their place in a hectic atmosphere. The first few days they walked around bewildered by the hustle and bustle of high school life. The freshmen displayed great school spirit at pep sessions and school activities.

The major event for the class was the ordering of their class rings. They went through agony in deciding the style and the stone. In the spring the freshmen placed their order for class jackets; they will receive them next fall.

Mr. Curt Hackney, Mrs. Rebecca Kirby, and Mr. Terry Martin were the freshmen class sponsors.

Below a few people show off their wild and exotic shoestrings.

Lace Invaders

What's purple, green, blue, red, starred, rainbowed, glittered, ballooned, and everything else you can imagine? If you guessed shoestrings, you are absolutely right. There are various reasons for this sudden, uprising fad. Some of the basketball players try out their own color combinations to bring themselves and the team good luck. The cheerleaders sport the school colors in their saddles, tennis shoes, etc. Then there are just your everyday students who go crazy and do their own thing. They experiment with different prints and designs as well as colors. So next time you are cruising the halls, check out your fellow classmates' shoestrings. You may be shocked!

More than just grades Our Honor Students

An honor or award. Something almost everyone dreams of. For some it is simply just getting an "A" on that very difficult biology test; for others, it means lots of hard practice and training for the sporting event they choose. But for a few students, it meant the chance to participate in Hoosier Boys and Girls State, to be chosen as the Daughters of the American Revolution recipient, to have their name on the scholarship plaque, or to be chosen the Century 21 Leadership recipient.

The delegates to Hoosier Boys and Girls State got a chance to live on the ISU campus for a week, participate in a mock government election, campaign, and meet many interesting people.

Joanie Butcher was the recipient of the DAR award. This award is given to the person the Daughters of the American Revolution think is most deserving of the "good citizen" title.

In order to have one's name on the scholarship plaque, one must have a grade point average of 3.25 or above. This was an honor enjoyed by several students.

By scoring well on a current events test given by the Government classes, and by writing an outstanding theme in conjunction with the test, Cyndie Pogue was named the winner in the Century 21 Leadership Contest.

Winners. Madison-Grant is full of them. Not only in the areas listed above, but in others such as sports, performing, and most of all, as people who care for one another and their school.

Stopping to pose before the Lincoln Memorial are Juniors, Lisa Blackburn, Coy Winslow, and Terri Blackburn.

A day of excitement in Washington D.C.

A day filled with excitement. That's what the students of M-G were looking forward to. For some 200 students, this meant the opportunity to visit our nation's capitol — Washington D.C. As they gathered together waiting to board the plane which was to take them to the capitol, there was a feeling of anticipation in the air.

Upon their arrival, students visited the Lincoln Memorial, the Smithsonian, and the Arlington National Cemetery, where they witnessed the changing of the guard. They also went to the capitol building and of course, to the White House.

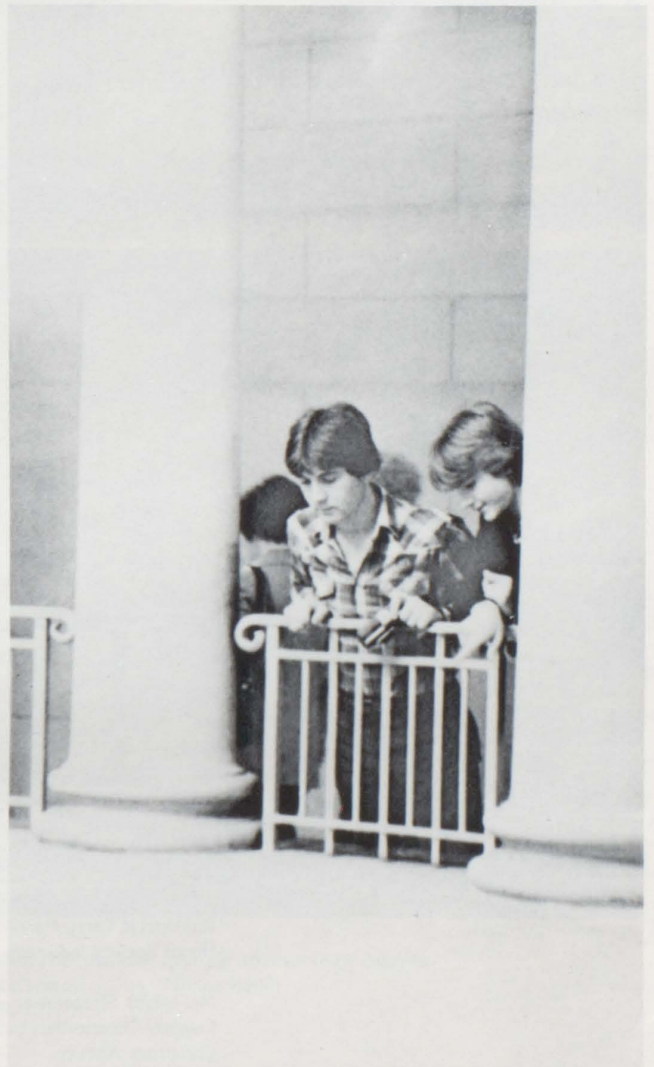

Although each person found the entire trip exciting, some things appealed to some more than others. Many enjoyed the beauty of Arlington, while others preferred the hustle and bustle of the city. Almost every student commented upon the beauty of the capitol building, especially the intricate detailing of the ceilings. The White House also appeared to be a favorite, because of the aura of times past and the knowledge that great men had lived there. But no matter where the bus took them, the students enjoyed the experience of learning first-hand about their country's capitol.

Making his way to the capitol building is Senior Andy VanNess.

Enjoying their visit to the White House are Kim Johnson, Amy Simpson, Shelly Webb, Jodi Simpson, and Stacey Webb.

Admiring the detailing of the floor in the capitol building are Juniors Kenny Knigga and J.D. Powers.

Value of Faculty

School faculty. Usually when a person hears these words, their immediate reaction is "yuk!" They tend to think only of the times they were reprimanded for being late to class, the times they were lectured for running in the hallways, or some other unpleasant encounters they may have experienced.

But without the teachers, how would one learn? Without the office secretaries, how would the school function? Without the custodians, how could the students study in a pleasant environment? If it weren't for an occasional disciplining now and then by the principal, the results would be disastrous.

Faculty. If one considers all aspects of the word, it really has a pleasant sound. For without the faculty, there would be no students.

The Change

Madison-Grant High School lost a prominent member of its staff at the end of the 1980-81 school year, Principal Paul E. Davis. He left here to take the position of Assistant Superintendent at West Central School Corporation which includes Frankton and Lapel. He was with the Madison-Grant School Corporation for 12 years from 1969 to 1981. The first five years he was the Assistant Principal and the Athletic Director. The last seven years he was Principal.

Replacing him is Mr. R. Larry Martin. The last position held by Mr. Martin was Principal at Union County High School in Liberty, Indiana. He has been a business teacher, counselor, athletic director, coach, and assistant principal. His wife has a Masters of Library Science. He also has two children.

When Mr. Martin was asked what he thought of education he said, "The key to a successful education for a student is responsibility."

ACADEMICS

English Dept. Sponsors Film

The English classes this year sponsored two movies. The first; "A Tale of Two Cities" by Charles Dickens was shown just before Christmas and Superman II was shown in the spring.

Mrs. Herring's Junior English classes put out the Clan Courier.

Bonjour Class! This is one of the familiar greetings in the French classes. The class learns about the French language, culture and geography through vocabulary, skits, dialogues and oral reports. When Mrs. Jackson came back from her trip to France the class learned about France from her first-hand experience.

This year the Spanish classes went to Indianapolis to see the Spanish rock group "Kantares."

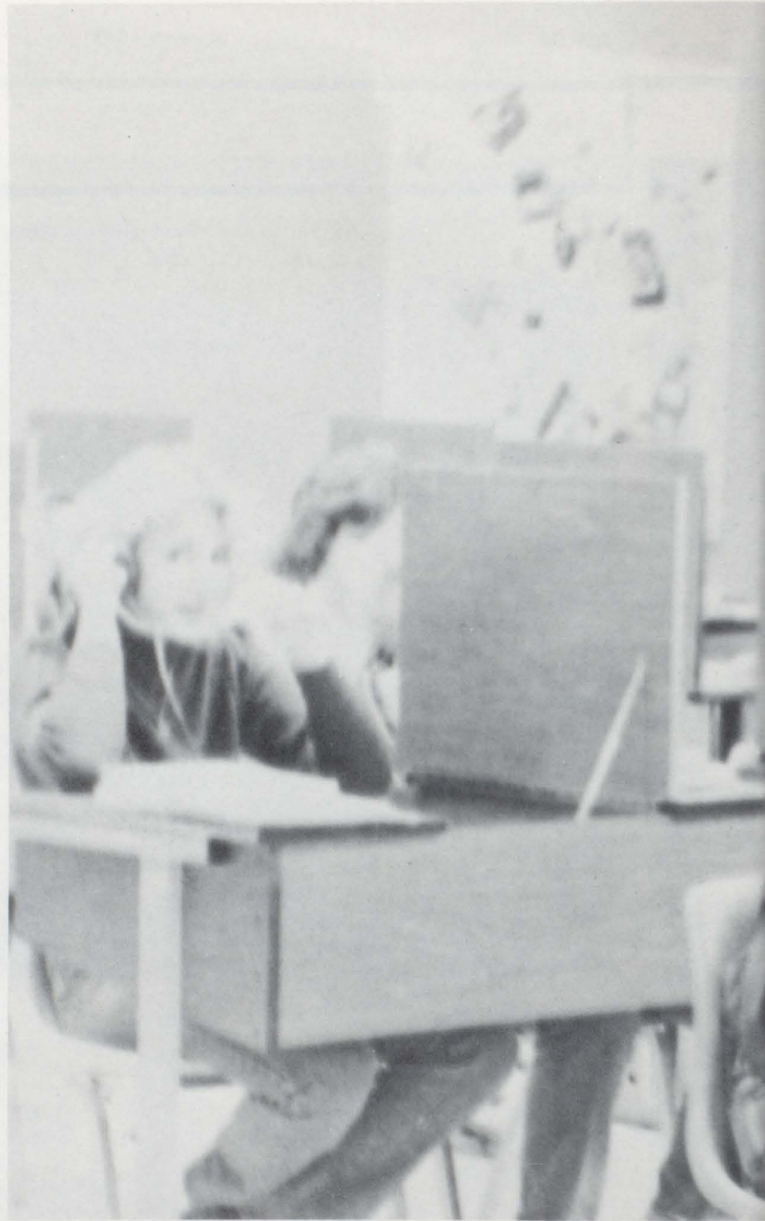

The class not only learned the Spanish language but also studied the Spanish culture and geography along with some Spanish history.

Speech class teaches students how to write and deliver their own speeches and how to polish their speaking skills.

The class also learns about the history of drama; and then students get to make up their own radio plays.

Students in English class take time to discuss their assignment.

Learning for the future

The Industrial Arts Department taught fundamental skills in basic electricity, basic woods, metals and printing. Some of the things students learned were the elementary laws of electricity, the use of woodworking tools, the measuring, cutting, shaping and welding of metals, the use of metals, and the use of a printing press.

In classes such as Foods I and II, Family Management, Child Development, Marriage and Family and Clothing I and II, students were taught how to manage a family, to balance a budget, to make clothing, and to cook a meal.

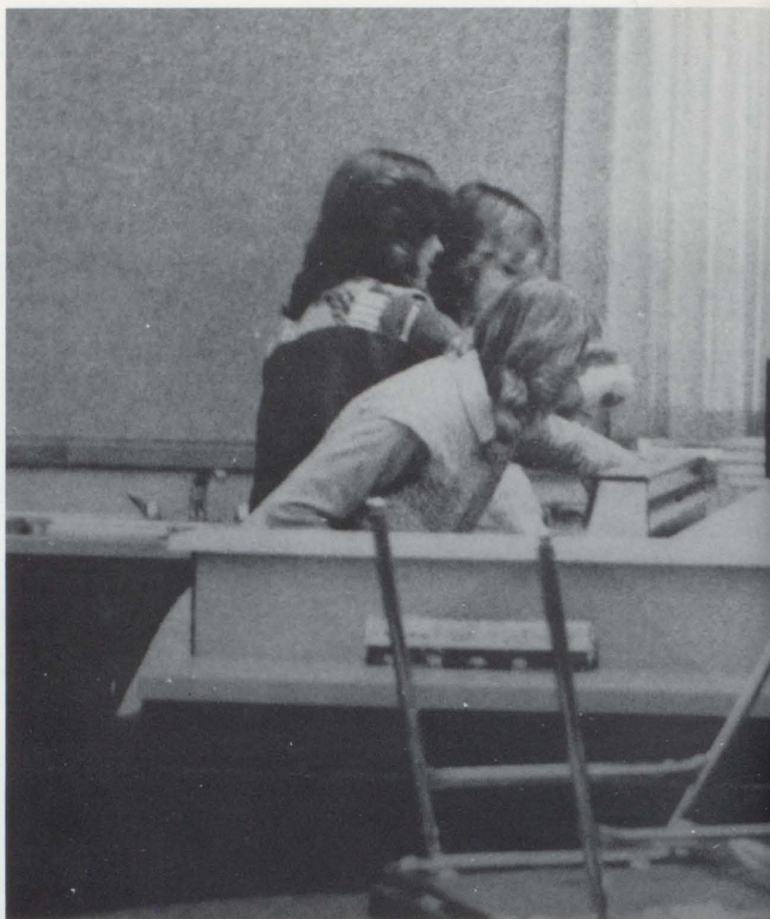

The Agriculture Department taught the importance of the farming industry in classes such as Livestock, Soil Crops, Agricultural Economics, and Agricultural Construction. These classes were of great value to present and future farmers.

Vocational school helps our future blue-collar workers by giving them their first taste of the "real" world. Classes like Graphic Arts, Machine Trades, Electronics, and Construction Trades gave the vocational students practical experience for their potential jobs.

“Artistic Argylls”

If not practicing for concerts, contests, or preparing for performances at football or basketball games, members of the band practice new music and polish their playing skills. The band sold pizza kits to raise money for their depleted resources.

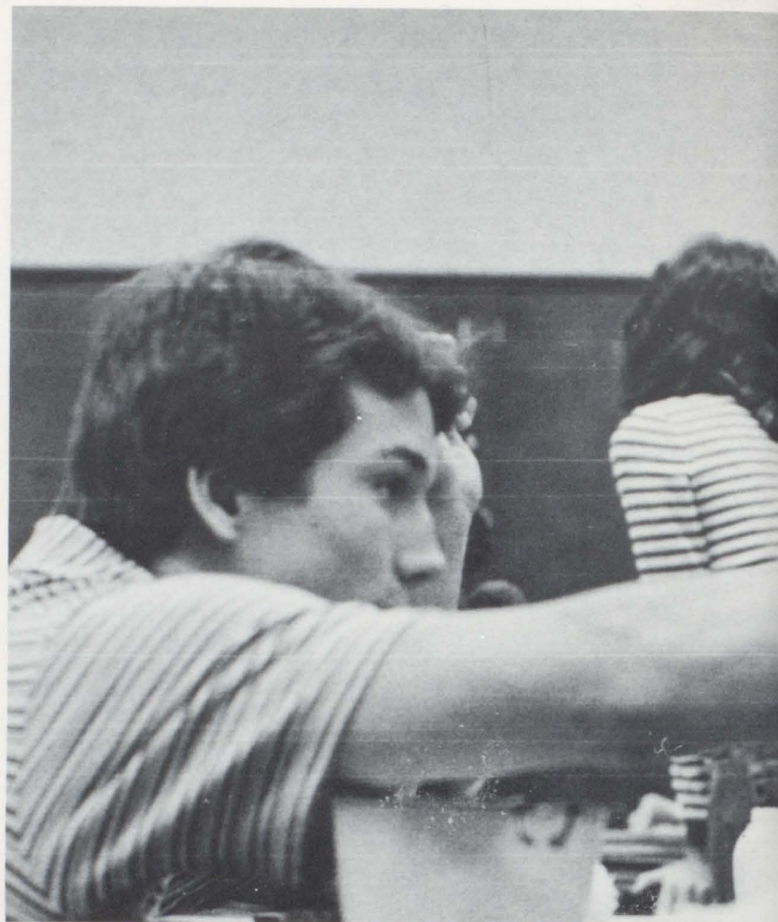

Basic Art I & II, Drawing I & II, Craft Design, and Printmaking I & II were the classes available in the Art Department. The drawing classes were responsible for most of the production posters and for the Christmas designs on the windows. The students also enjoyed the works of art outside the cafeteria in the display case.

Besides having participated in the Choral Festival and in the Fall Concert, choir classes this year put on the production of “Bring Back Birdie,” the musical sequel to “Bye, Bye Birdie.” The musical ran for two days and held everyone’s attention.

The Ar Guys and Gals also performed in projects such as singing at the Fairmount Museum Days, and at the VA Hospital.

Science Classes Learn By Experimenting

The science classes this year went on their annual field trip to Chicago. Included in the trip were the Science & Industry building, the Field Museum and other interesting sites of Chicago.

In the science classes the students learn by experimenting in labs, such as chemical reactions and atom structure, by dissecting, by studying life and life forms, the students also learn by demonstrations, movies, and by doing homework.

The math classes this year had an addition; a new Apple II computer. Next year there will be a class taught, based on the working of the computer.

The classes also polish up on old math skills as well as learn new ones through rules and theorems.

Gaining knowledge and skills

Physical Education teaches the different ways to keep the body in shape and to perform to the maximum by doing exercises and playing various games. Girls' P.E. classes learned rhythmic gymnastics, played volleyball, and golf, while the boys' P.E. classes ran track, and lifted weights.

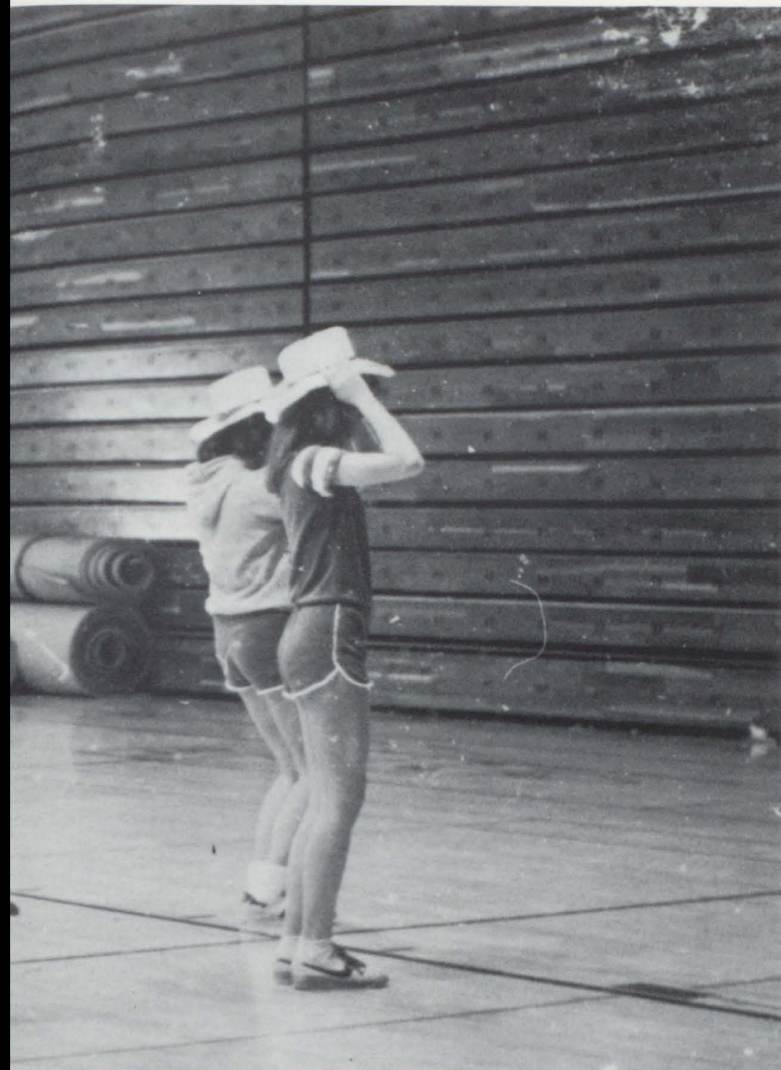

In health class, students learned about the body and discussed important issues, such as drug abuse and teen-age pregnancy. The students also learned mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, basic CPR, and antidotes for various poisons, along with emergency first aid.

Students taking Driver's Ed. learned among other things, safety while driving, to operate a car, to make minor repairs, and to insure their car. The fees for the class rose from last year's $20 to $30 this year, due to inflation.

Taught by Mrs. Jill Miller, the students in Special Education classes studied the basics of math, English, social studies, history, and science. Students also went to local areas of interest and some also participated in the Special Olympics.

Dedication is the word

Deadlines to be met and pictures to be taken. These factors kept the yearbook staff busily at work.

The staff had many beginners this year, including supervisor Nannette Moegerle. Although things were very hectic, especially around deadline time, credit must be given where credit is due — to every staff member whose dedication made this the best yearbook ever.

Another group of dedicated people were the assistants. They are the sneaky people who helped the teachers by spending an hour a day doing the things teachers sometimes didn't have the time to do, such as typing tests, grading papers and running errands.

Yet another dedicated group of people were the social studies teachers who made sure each student learned such important facts as the events that led up to certain wars, the current events of our world, and the government's functions. Students were taught these facts of the past to better understand the world's present condition, and were informed of the events of the day to help prepare for the world of tomorrow.

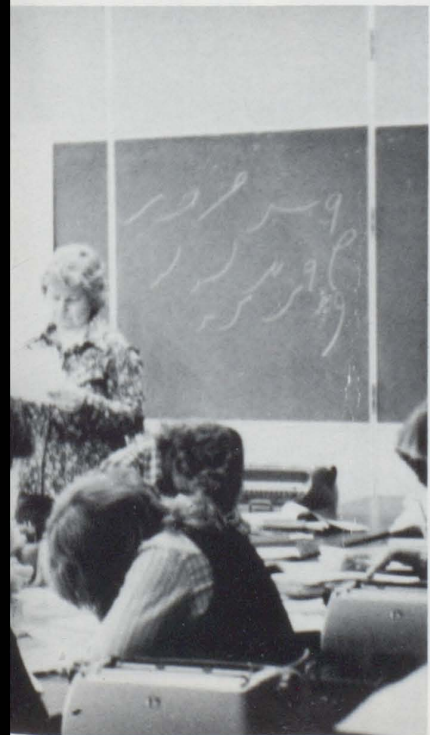

Dedication — the word that definitely must describe a business course. Learning to type with ten fingers that feel more like ten thumbs, learning to read and understand the "scratches and scribbles" of shorthand class, and finally mastering the arts of business machines. No doubt about it — Dedication is the word!

ORGANIZATIONS

Fundraising

Several methods of raising money were used this year to support the many clubs and organizations at M-G.

Campus Life had their pizza sales for the Florida trip. The French Club got into the swing of things by selling Tom Watt kits, and on Valentine's Day they helped us court our sweethearts by selling carnations. The Art Club raffled off a trip to Washington D.C. The FCA warmed us up at the football games by selling hot chocolate and hot dogs.

The Cheerblock got into the spirit of things by selling giant Argyll buttons and ribbons at each home basketball game.

The biggest fundraiser of the year was the auction. This annual event is on the last day of school before Christmas Vacation. This year it was arranged by the FCA. The money raised was given to needy children around the Fairmount area. This year it brought in a total of over $1,000.

Dawn Hendricks shows her loyalty to the Art Club by helping with a carwash that was held in the fall.

Simon says put your left elbow on your hip! . . . Let's bust the piñata señora . . . Come on, get a strike and you'll win the game.

All these may be familiar sounds if you were a member of a club this year. Many groups gathered for their Holiday parties or just for a fun get-together. There were plenty of games, and massive amounts of food.

Some clubs took their members to bowling alleys and skating rinks for an evening of fun.

Each group celebrated events in different ways, but the common denominator in all clubs, was the students' desire to have fun and their common phrase was "Let's Party!"

The play "Our Town" was presented by the speech team, and the Argyllettes performed at many football and basketball half times, as well as hosted a spring variety show in which the Ar Guys and Gals made a special appearance.

Overall, the performances given by the students of Madison-Grant proved to be quite entertaining.

Competition

Our sports program is not the only one with a competitive spirit. Many of our clubs and organizations also compete in their own areas.

The FFA compete in judging and a few of its members were fortunate enough to participate in the cattle judging, held in Kansas City.

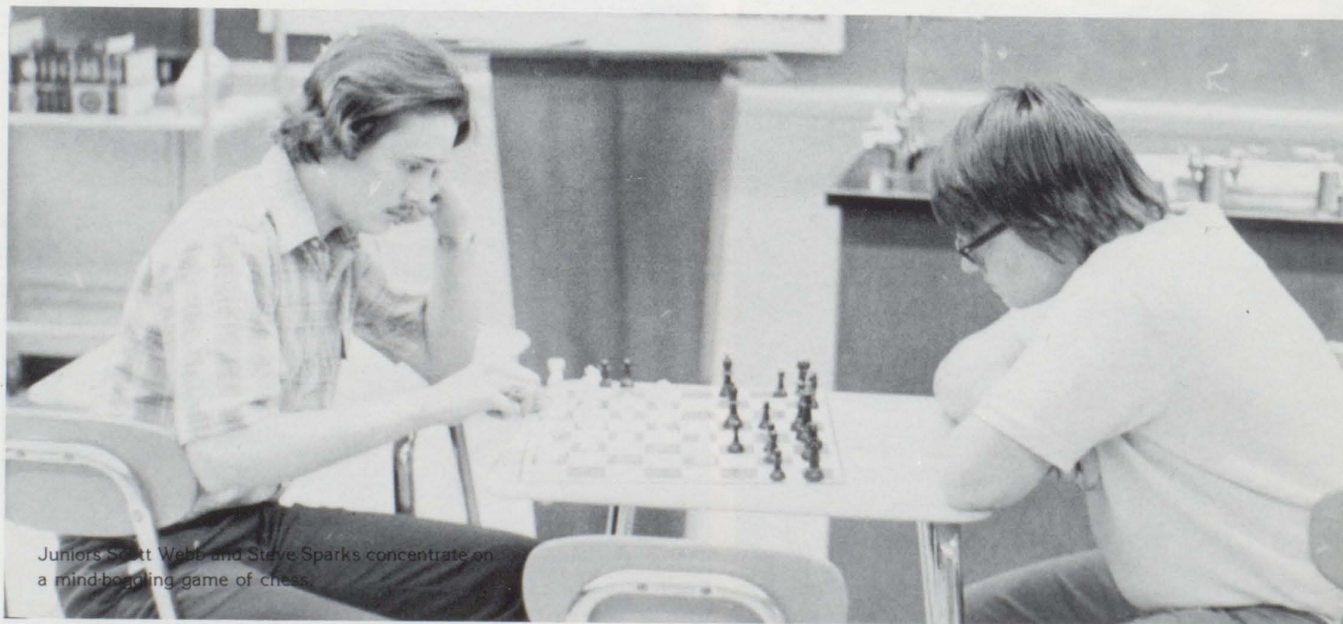

The members of the Chess Club compete against each other in chess matches.

Our Speech Team competes in various meets in nearby communities.

The band and drill team were very successful this year in the marching band competitions held in Fort Wayne, enabling them to advance to the state competitions. At state competition, they originally placed in the second division, but due to a misreading of the rules which cost them 10 points, they placed in the third division.

Baseball Team wins County Tournament

Although the baseball team supported a disappointing 7-14 record, they did have many bright spots during the season.

Todd Stroup had a 6-0 pitching record, including two no-hitters in a row. Stroup also led the team with a .405 batting average and four home runs.

Bud Shelton had no errors and led the team in RBIs.

The Argylls beat a tough Eastbrook team in the opening round of the Grant County Tournament and then defeated Missisnewa in the finals, making them the county champs.

In the sectional, M-G lost to Eastbrook in the second game.

The B-team had another losing record with Toby Gilman pitching their only win.

Girls' and Boys' Track Lacked Depth

The girls' track team had some very good individuals this season. The 400 meter relay consisting of Sherry Burgan, Terri Peacock, Stephanie Hinds, Jackie Kelich placed first in the county, second in the conference and participated in the regional. Jackie Kelich had a very fine year. She placed first in the county, second in the conference and sectional, third in regional and on to participate in the state track meet in which she placed thirteenth.

The boys' track team, as in the years before, had some very fine individuals, but lacked depth. Bill West won the county and had a very good year in the mile. The mile relay consisting of Ross Reeves, John Moorman, Dave Spencer, and Bill West also had an outstanding year.

Crossing the finish line to an easy victory is Sherry Burgan.

The golf team was extremely young last season, holding only one junior in Tim Guyre and no seniors. Chuck Travis was the low medalist on the team which posted a disappointing 2-7 record. Behind Travis', Guyre's, and Bob Morgan's play, the Argills placed fourth in the county and eleventh in the sectional tournaments.

The girls' tennis team had a very productive year sending their number one doubles team of Jackie Kelich and Linnie Stookey to the regional. They compiled a great season record of 15-3 while the whole team had a 5-7 record. The JV had a real good year by winning seven matches to only two defeats.

Injuries and Inconsistency Plague Argyls

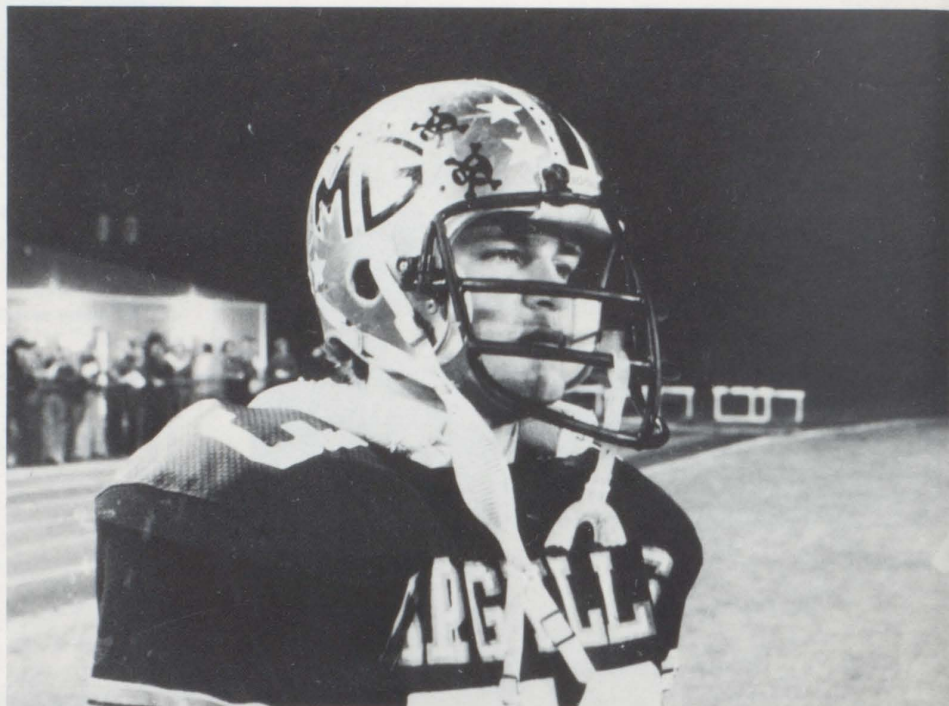

The 1981 Varsity football team showed a lot of pride and determination, though their record didn't show it, posting only a 4-6 record. They lost four games by only a touchdown or less.

The Argyls were plagued with injuries throughout the whole season. Senior co-captain Dave Spencer was put out with a broken arm early in the season, while another senior co-captain, Curt Stitt, was put out with a broken ankle. Junior Bill Cornelious nursed a bad ankle the entire season.

Making the All State Second Team Defense at tackle, was senior co-captain George Trent. Bill Cornelious received Honorable Mention at running back.

Senior Bud Shelton looks on in distress as the Argyls fall to an opponent.

Gaining good yardage against the Mississinewa Indians is senior Dave Spencer.

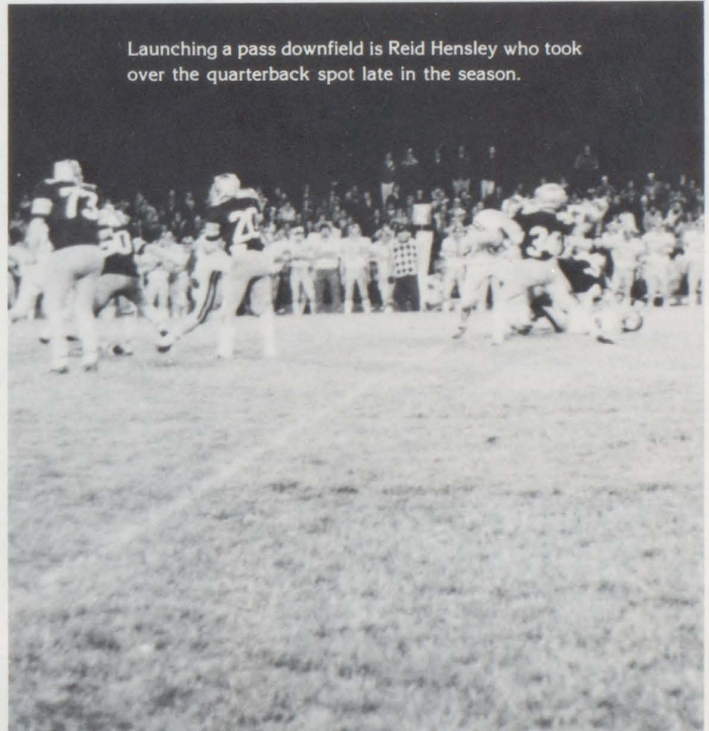

Looking upset at not scoring a touchdown is Sophomore Reid Hensley.

"Key injuries throughout the season kept our team from really playing to their full potential. A little more hustle and enthusiasm would have made a difference in our record too."

J-V and Frosh have average year

The Junior Varsity football team turned out a very productive year with a record of 3-3-1.

Junior Greg Simpson started out very strong at halfback in the early season before he moved up to the Varsity.

Junior Bobby Stevens had a very good year at quarterback and some running at tailback. Sophomores Toby Gilman and Adam Worl did an outstanding job on defense this year.

The Freshman football team turned out a so-so year at 3-4. The leading rusher for the freshman team was Rodney Kibbey. Roger Meiser did a fine job on offense and defense.

Pumping Iron

Supervised by head football coach Bud Badger, and Asst. football coach Curt Hackney, the weight lifting program at M-G went very well this year. There were girls as well as boys who participated in the program.

Weight lifting provides a great way to get in shape and to make the athlete stronger, and a stronger athlete makes a better athlete.

The reason the weight lifting program has gone so well this year is because of the new weight lifting machine. The machine consists of 3 bench presses, military press and leg press. The machine has been a great advantage.

Concentrating on building up his muscles is Senior Dave Spencer.

Getting in shape for next years' football season is Junior Brian Sabanski.

Volleyball Team Captures Conference

Lori Brown concentrates on serving the ball over the net in B-team play.

Boosting a 6-1 conference record, M-G's volleyball team won the CIC for the second year in a row. Cindy Pierce led the Argylls making 1st team All Conference and 1st team in the county.

Although the overall record of 10-12 was disappointing, coach Karen McClurg was happy with the teams performance.

In B-team play, Madison-Grant had an unblemishing 7-0 conference record and was 12-13 overall.

"The season went really well. I was especially happy with our conference play."

Veteran Tennis, Young Cross Country Performance Mediocre

The tennis team had a bad season this year, winning only two matches.

Greg Pollen held the number one singles position and Garland King played number two.

The Argylls placed fifth in the CIC conference and had a 2-12 record.

Pollen, King, and Sam Bright made the honorable mention in the conference.

Showing a bit of improvement over last year's record, the cross country team still posted a 2-6 slate.

Bill West was the number one runner all season and placed second in the Grant County, and fifth in the sectional meets. He also broke the school record for the home course.

The Argylls placed fourth in the conference meet.

"The underclassmen supported the team this season because of the hard work they did in the summer."

Young Argylls Disappointed

With only three Seniors and a new head coach, the varsity basketball team had a disappointing 5-16 record.

Apparently the team peaked at the beginning of the season, winning three of four of their first games which was over half of the wins for the season.

Leading in the statistical columns was Junior Darren Neslon, who led the team in rebounding and scoring, Junior, Ross Fones, led in field goal percentage, while Mike Ernst, junior, was the leader in the free throw percentage.

Most Valuable Player, along with Best Defensive Player went to Senior Co-Captain Jim Terhune.

son, Ross Fones, Jim Pulley, Jim Terhune, Coaches Jeff Summers, and Dave Strasemeier.

B-Team, Frosh are competitive

The B-Team had a relatively good year with a near .500 record of 9-11, which has become a perennial occurrence for Coach Dave Strasemeier.

Scoring leaders for the team were Reid Hensley and Joe Harrison with Harrison and Chuck Woodruff leading in the rebounding category.

The Freshman team had a new coach this season in Brian Kirkwood. His team finished the season with a 6-9 record.

Five of Kirkwood's players dressed in reserve play. They were Brian Stephens, Randy Mathews, Tom Mack, Brian Gibson, and Rodney Kibbey.

Both teams do well

The girls' varsity had a mediocre season, posting just below a .500 8-10 record. The girls also were just below the even mark in conference play with three wins and four losses.

Jana Titus, senior, proved to be the girls most productive scorer with plenty of support from Reageana Gross, junior. Joanie Butcher, senior, did the best job clearing the boards for the lady Argylls.

In B-Team play, they also had a good year with eleven wins and eight losses. Teena Ruggles was the leading scorer and Kim Gross was the second leading scorer.

Hard work pays off for gymnasts

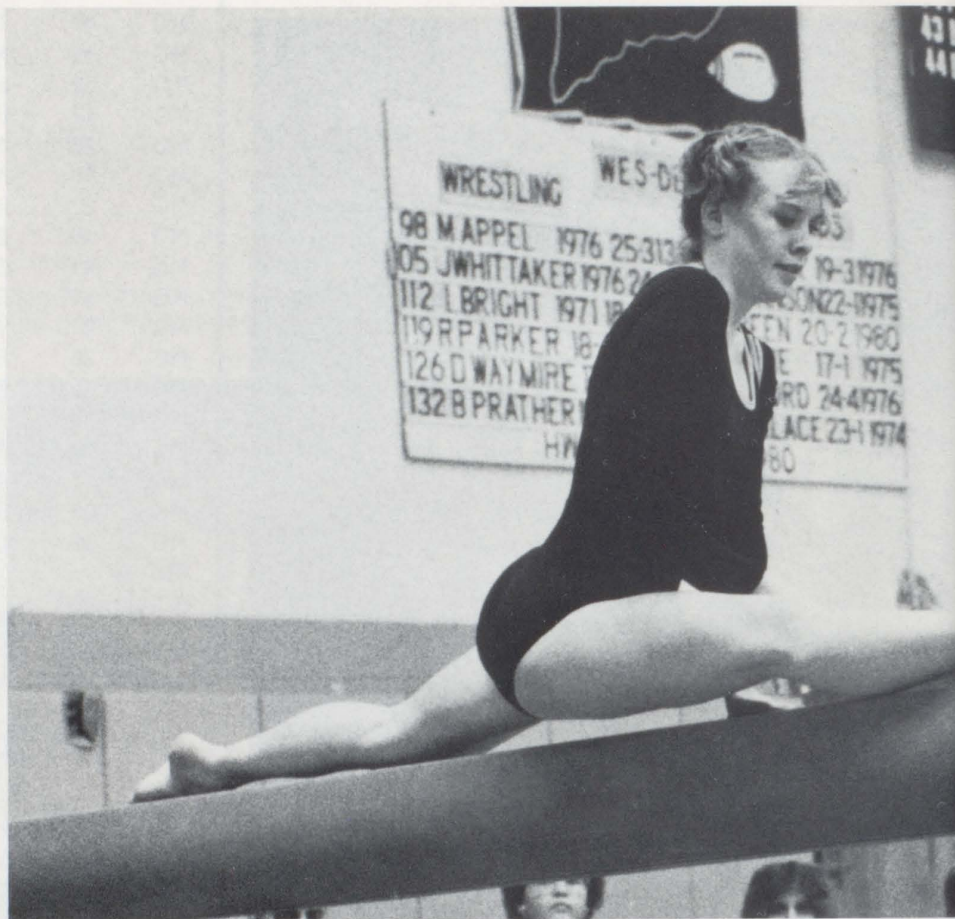

Many hours of hard work and dedication were put in by the gymnastic team. The gymnastic season spanned from November to March. The team was selected and started practices in early November.

This year proved to be successful. The optional team had a record of 5 wins and 5 losses and the intermediate team had a record of 6 wins and 4 losses. These teams placed 3rd in a sectional of 10 teams. Jodi Simpson (optional) and Trisha Peters (intermediate) advanced to the regional competition. Trisha went on to participate in State, where she finished 11th. The beginning level of competition was dropped.

Karen McClurg was the team coach and Cheryl Hackney came in as the Asst. Coach.

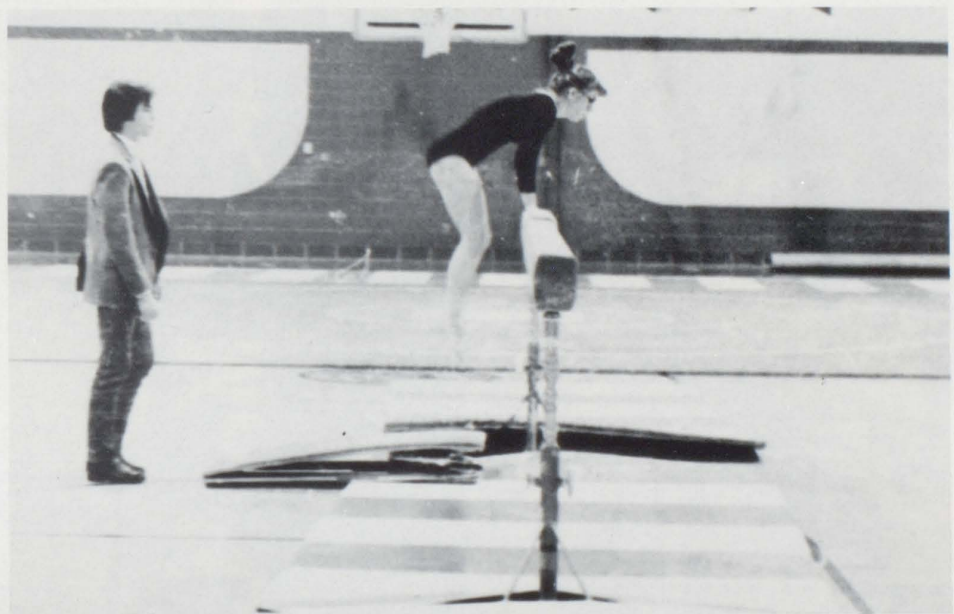

Showing good balance on the beam is Junior Jodi Simpson.

Coming off the vault with a 10 is Junior Sherry Burgan.

Cheerleaders Cheer Booster Club Boosts

This summer the varsity cheerleaders attended camp at Ohio State University. While attending this camp, they were taught various cheers and chants and given many ideas for spirit raising. In the evening, they were evaluated and given ribbons on their performances.

The Junior Varsity squad was very active this summer. They attended a camp at the University of Cincinnati. After many grueling summer practices, they participated in the Madison County 4-H Fair, and went on to compete in the Indiana State Fair contest.

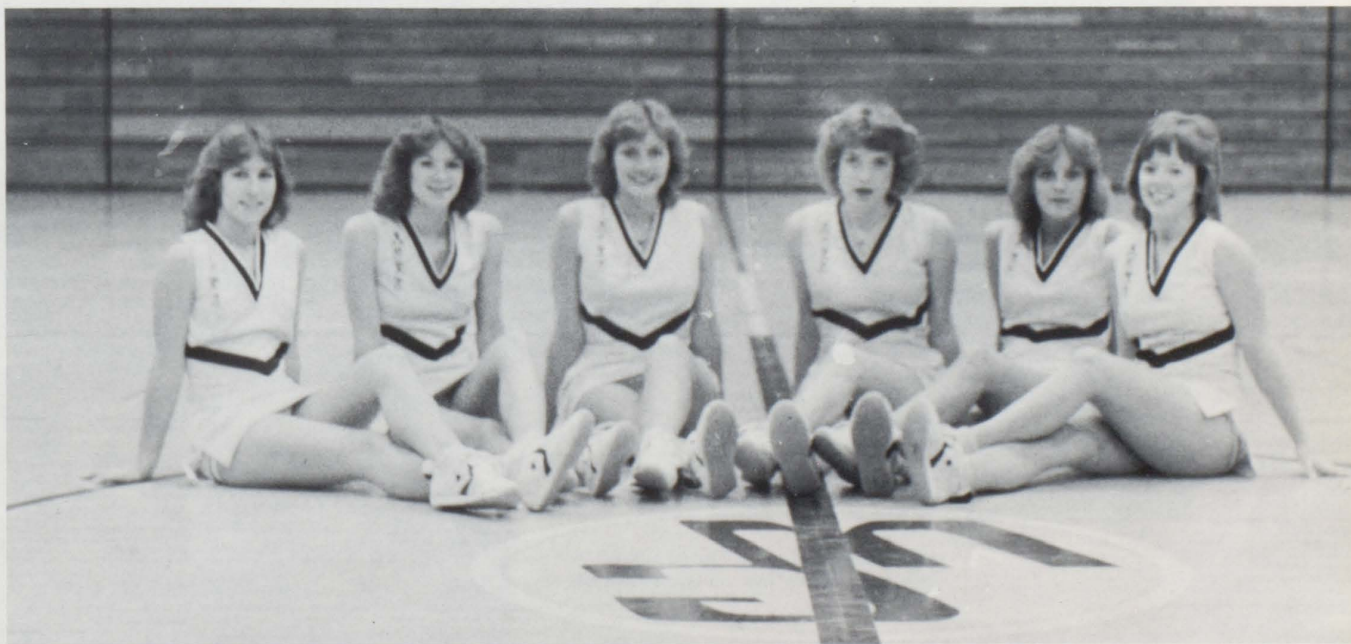

The freshmen Cheerleaders attended a camp at Vincennes University, and made an all-out effort to arouse spirit in their team and enormous crowd.

Also helping with spirit this year were the Matmaids. They raised enthusiasm in the team and also helped to announce and award ribbons to the wrestlers.

The girls that participated in these activities put in many hard hours supporting their team and deserve a lot of credit.

Helping out the cheerleaders at varsity sporting events was a booster block of approximately fifty girls. And for the first season in the first season, there was a male booster block for the boys varsity basketball games.

Varsity Cheerleaders — Stacey Webb, Nancy Matney, Shelly Webb, Jena Stitt, Tammy Bright, Lisa Shull.

The key to success is TEAMWORK

You can see it on their faces. Frustration, agony, tension, defeat, Confidence, eagerness, dedication, triumph. These feelings are seen on the faces of the people who make up one of the most exciting and rewarding aspects of high school life — athletics.

Team effort is what makes athletics at Mt. Glick. But this team isn't the kind of team that consists of 9 players on a diamond, 2 players on a court, or 5 players on the floor.

Clowning around in the halls before school begins are Seniors Terena Harting, Joanie Butcher, Sam Bright and Kay Inglis. Clown Day was just one of the many spirit events during sectional week.

It's the kind of team that consists of everyone from the ticket salesperson, to the timekeepers; from the dedicated fans to the concession workers; and from the coaches all the way to the backbone of our athletic program — the ones who work and sweat, and make a go of it no matter what — the athletes themselves.

All of these people work together to make our athletic program the kind that is always a winner.

Watching the Argylls during a tense basketball game is the loyal booster block.

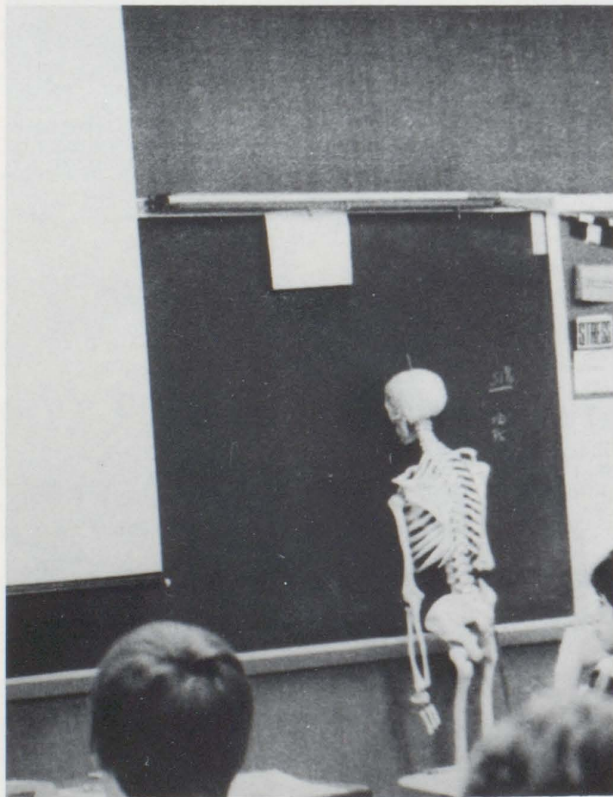

Argyll baseball players huddle together to plan the game's strategy.

Varsity cheerleaders count the pins on Freshmen Kim Chapem and Kelly Royal on "pin 'em up day." Kelly won with over 200!

Hang in there! The end is near!

Unable to cope with the pressures of her senior year, and college prep, Tammy Bright lets the "real her" shine through.

"Alright class, I've got a bone to pick with you!"

Scott Ratliff looks on in amazement as Ms. Moegerle disappears!

The mid-year

CRAZIES

RZIE

There comes that time in each school year when strange things begin to occur. Students begin to crack under the pressures of homework, and the teachers begin to lose control of their own minds, as well as their students'.

After long months of hard study, something brings out the "crazies" in everyone. Students crack jokes, giggle constantly, and do everything but what they're supposed to do. As for the teachers . . . they are often found talking to themselves, pulling out their hair, and laughing uncontrollably at their own jokes.

It is clear to everyone that the end must be near. Either the end of the school year, or the end of sanity. To outsiders looking in, these people may seem to have lost all sense of reality. But the ones on the inside know it is just a passing phase . . . they know it is just another case of the "MID-YEAR CRAZIES!!"

Hey, Vince! How'd you do that?

IN MEMORIAM

"To live in the hearts of friends is to live forever."

REFLECTIONS

Looking back over the 1981-82 school year, one may recall different things. The roar of the crowd at the basketball game . . . the laughter at the lunch table . . . the excitement of opening night at a play or performance . . . the anxiety felt as final test time rolled around . . . the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat . . . the endless snowstorms accompanied with the feeling of cabin fever . . . decorating the hallways during Homecoming week . . . the magical moment at the prom . . . the nervous feeling in the pit of your stomach as you turned in your term paper, and the sigh of relief that it was finally done . . . and the memories of good times shared with good friends.

No doubt to each individual the memories of this school year hold a different meaning. But to all students of Madison-Grant High School, one memory is the same. The memory of the faculty who cared, and the friendships that were shared.

Sharing their lunch hour and a smile for the camera are the girls at table four.

Yearbook Staff

The qualities of determination, dedication, talent, persistence, and patience are needed to put a yearbook together. One must expect to sacrifice much of his spare time in order for the publication to be a success. However, this yearbook would not have been possible without the help of certain individuals. We would like to take this opportunity to give a special thanks to Waters-Gayles Studios and Mr. David Nesbitt for their pictures; Mr. Larry Glaze, from Herff Jones, for his expert advice; Mrs. Linda Bragg for her special advice and assistance; and Mrs. Nanette Moegerle, for her time, patience, and understanding. But, most of all, we would like to thank you — the student body — for without you, there would be no yearbook.

As you look through the pages of this yearbook, it is our hope that you will see much more than "just pictures." We hope these pictures will be just a reminder of the memories of this 1981-82 school year.
